A Global Organization, A Local Network

IWIRC operates at both a global and a local level. The international board creates programs to foster national and cross-border relationships and education. Global conferences are scheduled in conjunction with other major restructuring conferences, leveraging business development opportunities and travel budgets.

Local networks organize professional, educational and social activities within their communities and regions which are structured to meet the specific needs and interests of network members. These conferences are ideal for meeting other professionals in a welcoming environment.

For young professionals eager to learn, to polish their networking skills, and to develop leadership skills, IWIRC international and regional conferences are ideal. Both local networks and the international organization offer "fast track" leadership opportunities for those seeking to take their careers to the next level.

IWIRC networks are located in Asia, Europe, and North America … but we have designs on the world!
